

Will you be missed after work?

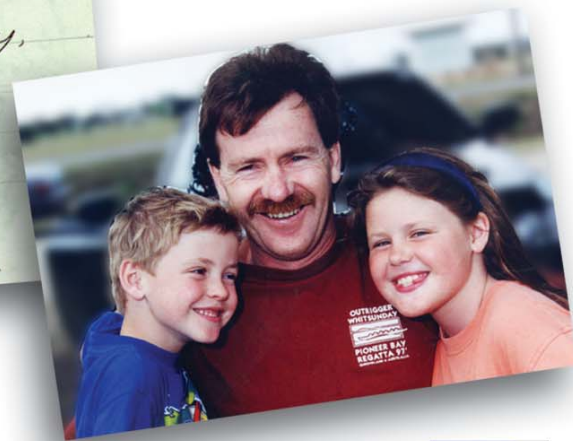

Dear Dad,

It's my 16th birthday next week but I wish it wasn't because you won't be here to share it with me. It all reminds me that you won't be here to share it with any of us. Not Christmas, not even my school formal. You won't be here to check out my first boyfriend, like I know you want to, or to walk me down the aisle, like I want you to. I feel so alone without you Dad. No one and nothing can ever fill the space in my heart you have left.

I miss being your little girl, your special little princess. Everyday, I miss your big bear hugs whenever I need them, and I need them now, but you aren't here to give them, and you never will be again. I know that you're my Guardian Angel now Daddy, but if it was my choice, I would rather, MUCH rather, have you here with me.

I miss you so much, I LOVE YOU SO MUCH, that every song I hear reminds me of you... And makes me cry. Nothing will ever change that Dad, and we'll be together again some day, when I'll hug you and never let go.

I Love you Dad,
from your little Angel, Cassie.

Trevor Deakin was killed in a single car accident driving home after a 12 hour nightshift. His family miss him very much.

Supported by PDC DIRECTORIES

Road Accident Action Group
Mackay
"Partners in Road Safety"

TIRED DRIVERS DIE